a walking tour of the Chicago Technology Park

The Chicago Technology Park is one of the world's largest urban centers of industrial and research facilities for biotechnology. Located within the Illinois Medical District, it is governed by the IMD Commission, a government agency that controls the development of the Medical District as a "special use" zoning area in Chicago's Near West Side.

Wednesday April 28, 2004 @ 3 pm

outside of the IMDC Offices, 600 S. Hoyne (corner of Harrison)
